Making of the Indignant Citizen: Politics, Aesthetics, and Housing Rights in Madrid and Rome

Andreea S. Micu examines the emergence of housing rights movements in Madrid and Rome. While the two movements were sparked by different factors, both are fueled by a shared sense of indignation against regimes of capital accumulation. This piece is featured in GUH's publication Participatory Urbanisms, a web publication interrogating the "participatory turn" in contemporary urban studies, performance studies, and art practice.
